Plaintiffs Commodity Futures Trading Commission (“CFTC”) and the State of Utah Division of Securities (“State of Utah”), by and through their undersigned attorneys, hereby allege as follows:

I. SUMMARY

1. For over thirty years, Gaylen Dean Rust (“Rust”) has owned and operated Rust Rare Coin, Inc. (“RRC”), a retail coin shop in Salt Lake City, Utah that sold customers rare coins and precious metals. From at least as early as 2008 and continuing through the present (the “Relevant Period”) Rust, RRC, Denise Gunderson Rust (“Denise Rust”) and Joshua Daniel Rust (“Joshua Rust”) (collectively, “Defendants”) also have engaged in a massive scheme to defraud over 430 individuals—from Utah and at least sixteen other states. Defendants Rust and RRC have fraudulently solicited over $200 million from investors between May 2013 and August 2018 alone, and throughout the Relevant Period they have tricked investors into believing that defendants Rust and RRC were pooling this money for the purpose of entering into contracts of sale for silver, a commodity in interstate commerce (the “Silver Pool”). Defendants Rust and RRC told investors and prospective investors that they would sell silver held in the pool as market prices rose and buy silver for the pool as market prices fell; thereby increasing the amount of silver held in the Silver Pool, as well as the value of each investor's share in that pool. Defendants Rust and RRC told investors and prospective investors in the Silver Pool that by trading silver in this manner, they generated extraordinarily high returns, averaging twenty to twenty-five percent per year and sometimes as high as forty percent per year or more. Defendants Rust and RRC provided investors with account statements that showed defendants Rust and RRC selling silver at a higher price than they subsequently repurchased it on every trade they executed on behalf of the Silver Pool—creating the impression that the Silver Pool was a highly profitable investment. Defendants Rust and RRC told investors that defendants Rust and RRC possessed approximately seventy-seven to eighty million dollars of silver on behalf of the Silver Pool and stored this silver at Brink's, Incorporated ("Brink's") depositories in Salt Lake City, Utah and Los Angeles, California.

2. The Silver Pool was a sham. Defendants Rust and RRC did not use contributions from investors to purchase silver for the Silver Pool. Instead, defendants Rust and RRC misappropriated investor funds and used these funds to make payments to other investors, transfer money to other companies owned by Rust, and pay personal expenses. Defendants Rust and RRC never had a trading account in which they sold and bought back physical silver for the Silver Pool, as falsely claimed in the account statements they provided to investors. Defendants Rust and RRC never earned the returns they touted to investors, and the payments they made to investors throughout the Relevant Period consisted of funds provided by other Silver Pool investors, not from profits generated from trading physical silver—in other words payments in the manner of a Ponzi scheme. Although defendants Rust and RRC transferred a small portion of investor contributions to accounts at several precious metals dealers, defendants Rust and RRC never purchased and stored anything approaching the approximately seventy-seven to eighty million dollars of silver they claimed to be storing at Brink's depositories in Salt Lake City and/or Los Angeles.

3. Throughout the Relevant Period, defendants transferred large amounts of money they solicited and received from Silver Pool investors to defendant Denise Gunderson Rust ("Denise Rust") and Relief Defendants Aleesha Rust Franklin ("Aleesha Franklin"), R. Legacy Entertainment, LLC ("R. Legacy Entertainment"), R. Legacy Racing Inc. ("R. Legacy Racing"), and R. Legacy Investments LLC ("R. Legacy Investments") (collectively, "Relief Defendants"). Relief Defendants used money contributed by investors to fund various personal and unrelated business expenses.

4. In carrying out their scheme defendants Rust and RRC received substantial assistance from defendants Denise Rust and Joshua Daniel Rust ("Joshua Rust"). Both Denise Rust and Joshua Rust knew that the Silver Pool was a fraudulent scheme, that defendants Rust and RRC had made and continue to make misrepresentations to investors in the Silver Pool, and that defendants Rust and RRC misappropriated funds contributed by Silver Pool investors. Defendant Denise Rust assisted in defendants Rust and RRC's misappropriation of investor funds by signing checks issued to investors knowing that these checks were Ponzi payments involving money contributed by other investors and by transferring money from the bank accounts defendants Rust and RRC used to receive investor funds to one or more Relief Defendants. Defendant Joshua Rust managed the day-to-day operations of defendant RRC and also signed checks issued to investors that were Ponzi payments involving money contributed by other investors. Defendant Joshua Rust, as manager of RRC, transferred money from defendant RRC's operating accounts knowing that this money would be used by defendants Rust and RRC for the purpose of making Ponzi payments to Silver Pool investors. At times during the Relevant Period, Defendant Joshua Rust also requested and received transfers of money he knew was contributed by Silver Pool investors for the purpose of funding the operating expenses of defendant RRC.

5. Defendants Rust and RRC's fraudulent scheme has been ongoing at least through November 15, 2018. In the first eight months of 2018, defendants Rust and RRC have received at least $42 million from Silver Pool investors and paid approximately $26 million back to Silver Pool investors. Defendants Rust and RRC have attempted to solicit new investors in the Silver Pool at least as recently as October 8, 2018.

6. By engaging in this conduct and the conduct further described herein, Defendants have engaged, are engaging, or are about to engage in violations of the anti-fraud provisions of the Commodity Exchange Act ("Act"), 7 U.S.C. §§ 1-26 (2012), and Commission Regulations ("Regulations"), 17 C.F.R. pts. 1-190 (2018), as well as the Utah Uniform Securities Act ("UUSA"), § 61-1-1 to 61-1-32.

7. By knowingly and willfully signing and issuing checks and/or initiating wire transfers constituting Ponzi payments to investors, transferring contributions from Silver Pool investors to fund Rust's other businesses or RRC's coin shop business, and commingling the money contributed by Silver Pool investors with the funds of these other businesses, defendants Denise Rust and Joshua Rust participated in and aided and abetted defendants Rust and RRC's fraudulent scheme. Defendants Denise Rust and Joshua Rust are thus responsible as if they were principals under Section 13(a) of the Act, 7 U.S.C. § 13c(a) (2012), for defendants Rust and RRC's violations of 7 U.S.C. § 9(1) and 17 C.F.R. § 180.1(a)(1)-(3). Defendants Denise Rust and Joshua Rust also engaged in acts, practices, or a course of business that operated as a deceit on other persons in violation of Section 61-1-1(3) of the UUSA.

8. Unless restrained and enjoined by the Court, Defendants are likely to continue engaging in the acts and practices alleged in this Complaint or in similar acts and practices, and funds they have obtained fraudulently may be misappropriated or otherwise dissipated.

9. Plaintiffs bring this action pursuant to Sections 6c and 6d of the Act, 7 U.S.C. §§ 13a-1, 13a-2 (2012), and Section 61-1-20 of the UUSA to enjoin Defendants' unlawful acts and practices and to compel Defendants' compliance with the Act and the UUSA.

II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

10. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. § 1331 (2012) (federal question jurisdiction) and 28 U.S.C. § 1345 (2012) (district courts have original jurisdiction over civil actions commenced by the United States or by any agency expressly authorized to sue by Act of Congress). Section 6c(a) of the Act, 7 U.S.C. § 13a-1(a) (2012), authorizes the Commission to seek injunctive and other relief against any person whenever it appears to the Commission that such person has engaged, is engaging, or is about to engage in any act or practice constituting a violation of any provision of the Act or any rule, regulation, or order thereunder. Section 6d(1) of the Act, 7 U.S.C. § 13a-2(1) (2012), authorizes the State of Utah to bring a suit in the district courts of the United States to seek injunctive and other relief against any person whenever it appears to the Attorney General of Utah, or the administrator of the securities laws of Utah, or such other official that Utah may designate, that the interests of the residents of Utah have been, are being, or may be threatened or adversely affected because of violations of the Act or Regulations.

11. This Court has supplemental jurisdiction over the State of Utah's claims under Utah law pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1367(a) (2012).

12. Venue lies properly in this District pursuant to Section 6c(e) of the Act, 7 U.S.C. § 13a-1(e) (2012), because Defendants transacted business in this District, and certain of the acts and practices in violation of the Act, the Regulations, and Utah law occurred, are occurring, or are about to occur within this District, among other places.

IV. FACTS

A. Defendants Engaged in a Scheme To Defraud Silver Pool Investors by Making False Representations and Omitting Material Facts, Misappropriating Investor Funds, and Providing False Account Statements

1. Defendants Rust and RRC Solicited Individual Investors To Contribute to a Pooled Investment Involving Contracts of Sale for Silver, a Commodity in Interstate Commerce

23. Defendants Rust and RRC promoted the Silver Pool as an exclusive investment opportunity reserved for individual investors with a personal or business connection to Rust. Defendants Rust and RRC solicited friends or business associates of Rust and/or customers of RRC to contribute money to the Silver Pool. These friends and customers in turn spread word of the Silver Pool and the investment returns defendants Rust and RRC were purportedly generating to certain friends and family, some of whom also gave money to defendants Rust and RRC for the Silver Pool. Defendants pooled the contributions they received from investors in two bank accounts in the name of RRC.

24. Defendants Rust and RRC told investors and prospective investors that they were using the money contributed to the Silver Pool to purchase and store physical silver for investment. Under Section 1a(9) of the Act, 7 U.S.C. § 1a(9) (2012), as well as Section 61-1-13(f)(ii) of the UUSA, silver is a statutorily-defined commodity. Defendants Rust and RRC used the mails or other instrumentalities of interstate commerce to: (1) receive checks from Silver Pool investors in the pool; (2) receive into their bank accounts wire transfers from Silver Pool investors in the pool; (3) disseminate false account statements to Silver Pool investors.

25. Defendants Rust and RRC's Silver Pool, which they operated and marketed to investors and prospective investors, is an investment contract, which is a security under Section 61-1-13(s) of the UUSA. Silver Pool investors have no role in defendants Rust and RRC's business operations and only provide investment funds.

26. Defendants Rust and RRC did not provide Silver Pool investors with a written agreement or contract setting forth the terms of the investment. In addition, defendants Rust and RRC did not provide Silver Pool investors with a disclosure document such as an offering circular or prospectus. Silver Pool investors received only a single-page receipt documenting the size of their contribution to the Silver Pool.

27. Defendants Rust and RRC have been soliciting and receiving contributions for the Silver Pool from investors and prospective investors since at least 2003. Since 2013, defendants Rust and RRC have received over $200 million in contributions from investors for the Silver Pool.

2. Defendants Rust and RRC Falsely Represented that They Used Contributions to the Silver Pool To Purchase and Trade Silver; Instead, Defendants Misappropriated this Money for Personal Expenses and To Fund Rust's Other Businesses

28. Defendants Rust and RRC told investors and prospective investors that they used money contributed to the Silver Pool to purchase physical silver, which they stored at one of two Brink's storage facilities either in Salt Lake City, Utah or Los Angeles, California. In 2018, defendants Rust and RRC claimed that they held between seventy-seven and eighty million dollars in the Silver Pool, all of which was in the form of physical silver stored at these two Brink's depositories. Defendants Rust and RRC represented that investors could liquidate their investments and obtain the cash value of their share in the Silver Pool at any time. Defendants Rust and RRC further represented to investors that defendants Rust and RRC would sell silver held in the Silver Pool to fund any such liquidation request.

29. Defendants Rust and RRC claimed that they generated profits for investors by selling silver they held in the Silver Pool either when market prices for physical silver began to rise or immediately before those prices began to decline. Defendants Rust and RRC claimed that after market prices for silver declined, they used the proceeds from their sale of silver to purchase a larger quantity of silver at a lower price. As a result of this trading, defendants Rust and RRC claimed that they were able to increase the number of ounces of silver held in the Silver Pool and thus the value of each investor's share in the Silver Pool. Defendants Rust and RRC told investors and prospective investors that defendants Rust and RRC sold and repurchased approximately fifty percent of the total amount of silver held in the Silver Pool in each trade.

30. Defendants Rust and RRC told some Silver Pool investors and prospective investors that they were able to consistently sell silver at higher prices and purchase silver back at lower prices because they had advance knowledge of when market prices of silver would decline. Specifically, Rust claimed that he had a personal relationship with a commodity analyst at a large global bank and that Rust obtained information from this analyst regarding when that bank and other market participants planned to sell large quantities of physical silver, driving down market prices.

31. Defendants Rust and RRC told investors and prospective investors that by trading silver in this manner, defendants Rust and RRC were able to generate high rates of return for the Silver Pool. Specifically, defendants Rust and RRC often told Silver Pool investors and prospective investors that defendants Rust and RRC were able to generate “consistent” returns of twenty to twenty-five percent through their selling and subsequent repurchase of silver. Defendants Rust and RRC told some Silver Pool investors and prospective investors that they had generated returns as high as forty percent between 2013 and 2018. Further, defendants Rust and RRC told some Silver Pool investors that their investments “doubled” in 2014.

32. Defendants Rust and RRC represented to Silver Pool investors and prospective investors that Rust had an account with HSBC Bank (“HSBC”) through which Rust traded the silver held in the Silver Pool. Defendants Rust and RRC also told these investors and prospective investors that after selling and repurchasing silver through their HSBC account, defendants Rust and RRC received the additional silver they obtained through these trades at Brink’s facilities in Salt Lake City, Utah and Los Angeles, California.

33. The statements defendants Rust and RRC made to solicit investors and prospective investors to contribute to the Silver Pool were false. Despite receiving over $200 million from Silver Pool investors since 2013, representing to Silver Pool investors that they used all of that money to purchase physical silver, and further representing to Silver Pool investors that they increased the amount of silver held in the Silver Pool through trading, defendants Rust and RRC currently possess only approximately $200,000 worth of physical silver. Defendants Rust and RRC do not currently store any physical silver at Brink's facilities in Salt Lake City, Utah, Los Angeles, California, or anywhere else. Brink's has never had a contract to store silver for RRC or Rust. In addition, storing the $77 million to $80 million worth of physical silver defendants Rust and RRC claimed to hold in the Silver Pool would cost in excess of $100,000 per year in annual storage fees. Defendants Rust and RRC have never paid Brink's any annual storage fees, let alone annual storage fees approaching $100,000. Although at one time prior to 2016 Brink's stored approximately $1 million worth of physical silver for defendants Rust and RRC, this amount is far less than the amount of physical silver defendants Rust and RRC claimed to hold at the time and the approximately $200 million defendants Rust and RRC have received from Silver Pool investors since 2013.

34. Furthermore, defendants Rust and RRC did not trade silver in the manner they described to Silver Pool investors. Defendants Rust and RRC never had a trading account with HSBC Bank ("HSBC") through which they traded physical silver, as they represented to investors and prospective investors.

35. Instead, defendants Rust and RRC misappropriated funds invested in the Silver Pool. Defendants Rust and RRC used money contributed by Silver Pool investors to pay personal expenses, such as, for example, mortgage payments on the home of a family member of Rust. Defendants Rust and RRC also used money contributed by Silver Pool investors to make payments to other investors in the pool, in the manner of a Ponzi scheme. Specifically, after receiving a new deposit from a Silver Pool investor, defendants Rust and RRC frequently made smaller payments to several other Silver Pool investors out of the same account without ever transferring funds to or from a trading account or any other account that could be used to buy or sell silver or other precious metals.

36. In addition, defendants Rust and RRC transferred money contributed by Silver Pool investors to other entities owned by Rust, including, but not limited to, Relief Defendants R. Legacy Entertainment, R. Legacy Racing, and R. Legacy Investments. R. Legacy Entertainment did not own silver or other precious metals, or own any trading or other accounts used to buy or sell silver or other precious metals. Instead, R. Legacy Entertainment operated a variety of businesses and charitable activities having no connection to the purchase and sale of silver, including a music recording studio, a video production business, and a catering and event planning business. R. Legacy Racing did not own silver or own any trading or other accounts used to buy or sell silver or other precious metals. Instead, R. Legacy Racing owned thoroughbred horses.

37. Defendants also transferred money contributed by Silver Pool investors to several personal bank accounts, including personal bank accounts owned by Rust, Defendant Denise Rust, and Relief Defendant Aleesha Franklin, where it was used for a variety of personal expenses.

38. For example, between January 1, 2018, and August 31, 2018, defendants Rust and RRC received over $42 million in new contributions from Silver Pool investors and deposited all these contributions in an account at Zion's Bank held in the name of RRC ending in 7496 (the "7496 Account"). During this time period, defendants Rust and RRC made approximately $28 million in payments from the 7496 Account to Silver Pool investors.

39. Between January 1, 2018, and August 31, 2018, defendants Rust and RRC transferred approximately $7 million from the 7496 Account to RRC's other Zion's Bank accounts, where it was commingled with the revenue and expenses associated with RRC's coin shop business managed by defendant Joshua Rust. Defendants Rust, RRC, and Joshua Rust used $15,173,104 from a Zion's Bank account in the name of RRC ending in 3564 (the "3564 Account") to purchase precious metals and coins, both from wholesale precious metals dealers and individuals. During this same time period, defendants Rust, RRC, and Joshua Rust also sold $9,338,421 in precious metals and coins to both wholesale precious metals dealers and individuals. During this time period, defendants Rust, RRC, and Joshua Rust had net purchases of precious metals amounting to $5,834,683, despite having received over $42 million from individuals for the purpose of purchasing precious metals.

40. In addition, from January 1, 2018, to August 31, 2018, defendants Rust and RRC transferred approximately $4.9 million from the 7496 Account to Relief Defendant R. Legacy Entertainment. Defendants Rust and RRC transferred approximately $300,000 from the 7496 Account to Relief Defendant R. Legacy Racing. Defendants Rust and RRC transferred approximately $654,920 from the 7496 Account to Relief Defendant R. Legacy Investments. Because the amounts each of these Relief Defendants received from the 7496 Account far exceed the approximately $48,000 Defendants Rust and RRC received into the 7496 Account from sources other than Silver Pool investors, the money transferred to Relief Defendants from the 7496 Account consists almost entirely of money contributed by Silver Pool Investors. Relief Defendants R. Legacy Entertainment, R. Legacy Racing, and R. Legacy Investments have no legitimate claim to the funds that they received from this Zion's Bank account.

41. From January 1, 2018, to August 31, 2018, defendants Rust and RRC transferred approximately $130,308 from the 7496 Account to defendant Denise Rust. Again, the money transferred to defendant Denise Rust consisted largely of money contributed by Silver Pool investors. Defendant Denise Rust has no legitimate claim to the funds that she received from this Zion's Bank account.

42. From January 1, 2018, to August 31, 2018, Defendants Rust and RRC transferred approximately $121,500 from the 7496 Account to Relief Defendant Aleesha Franklin. Again, the money transferred to Aleesha Franklin consisted largely of money contributed by Silver Pool investors. Aleesha Franklin has no legitimate claim to the funds that she received from this Zion's Bank account.

43. During this same time period, defendants Rust and RRC transferred approximately $292,384 from the 7496 Account to a Zion's Bank account in the name of defendant Joshua Rust (the "Joshua Rust Account") and received approximately $407,735 from the Joshua Rust Account into the 7496 Account. This resulted in a net receipt of $115,351 from the Joshua Rust Account. During this same time period, defendants Rust and RRC transferred approximately $2,030,206 from RRC's other bank accounts at Zion's Bank, including the 3564 Account, to the Joshua Rust Account and received approximately $1,786,865 from the Joshua Rust Account. As a result, defendants Rust and RRC paid a net total of $243,341 from RRC's other bank accounts, including the 3564 Account, to the Joshua Rust Account. Joshua Rust has no legitimate claim to the funds he received from these other Zion's Bank accounts.

44. Defendants Rust and RRC knew that the statements and representations described above that they made to Silver Pool investors and prospective investors were false when they made them. Defendants Rust and RRC intended to and did misappropriate the vast majority of Silver Pool investor funds they received during the Relevant Period.

45. In addition to the false statements described above, defendants Rust and RRC omitted material facts when soliciting investors and prospective investors for the Silver Pool that were necessary to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading. Specifically, defendants Rust and RRC omitted the following:

- a. That defendants Rust and RRC would use Silver Pool investor funds to pay for personal and business expenses;
- b. That Silver Pool redemptions would be paid out of money contributed by other investors and not sales of silver actually held by defendants Rust and RRC in storage facilities;
- c. That Defendants Rust and RRC would use Silver Pool investor funds to fund the activities of other businesses owned by Rust;
- d. That defendants Rust and RRC were not licensed to sell securities, and the securities were not registered or exempt from registration; and
- e. All of the information typically included in disclosure documents (offering memoranda or prospectus) that accompany the sale of securities.

46. Throughout the Relevant Period, defendants Rust and RRC solicited most, if not all, investors and prospective investors in the Silver Pool using some variant of the fraudulent statements and misrepresentations described above. In addition, defendants Rust and RRC omitted the facts described above to most, if not all, investors and prospective investors in the Silver Pool in the course of soliciting contributions from them.

3. Denise Rust Defrauded Investors By Making Ponzi Payments and Transferring Misappropriated Funds to Relief Defendants

47. During the Relevant Period, defendant Denise Rust knew that the Silver Pool was a fraudulent scheme. Specifically, defendant Denise Rust knew that defendants Rust and RRC misrepresented to investors that they used money contributed by investors to the Silver Pool to purchase Silver. Defendant Denise Rust was a signatory on the 7496 Account that defendants Rust and RRC used to receive investor funds and had access to statements and online transaction ledgers for the 7496 Account. Defendant Denise Rust observed that money received from investors in the Silver Pool into the 7496 Account was being used by defendants Rust and RRC to make payments to other investors and was not being used to purchase silver.

48. Defendant Denise Rust assisted defendants Rust and RRC in carrying out their fraudulent scheme by preparing and signing checks and initiating wire transfers to investors that represented Ponzi payments. When defendant Denise Rust prepared and signed these checks and initiated these wire transfers, she knew that the money for these payments was coming from the contributions of other investors in the Silver Pool, not from the sale of silver. In preparing and signing these checks and initiating these wire transfers, defendant Denise Rust intended to assist defendants Rust and RRC make Ponzi payments to Silver Pool investors.

49. Defendant Denise Rust also knew that defendants Rust and RRC misappropriated money contributed by Silver Pool investors by using this money to fund the operations of Relief Defendants R. Legacy Entertainment, R. Legacy Racing, and R. Legacy Investments. Furthermore, defendant Denise Rust knew, from discussions with defendant Rust, that Relief Defendants R. Legacy Entertainment, R. Legacy Racing, and R. Legacy Investments were dependent on money contributed by Silver Pool investors to fund their business operations. Defendant Denise Rust assisted defendants Rust and RRC in misappropriating money contributed by Silver Pool investors by using her access and control over the 7496 Account and the bank accounts of Relief Defendant R. Legacy Racing to transferring money contributed by Silver Pool investors into the 7496 Account to R. Legacy Racing. During the Relevant Period, defendant Denise Rust initiated at least twenty transfers of money from the 7496 Account to R. Legacy Racing. In doing so, defendant Denise Rust intended to assist defendants Rust and RRC in misappropriating money contributed by Silver Pool investors.

4. Joshua Rust Defrauded Investors by Making Ponzi Payments.

50. During the Relevant Period, defendant Joshua Rust managed RRC's coin shop business. As manager of RRC's coin shop business, defendant Joshua Rust had access to and signatory authority over RRC's bank accounts, including the 7496 Account. As manager of RRC's coin shop business, defendant Joshua Rust observed the flow of funds between RRC's bank accounts. Defendant Joshua Rust was also responsible for ordering precious metals to supply inventory for RRC's coin shop business and fulfill orders placed by customers of RRC's coin shop business, and typically funded such transactions from 3564 Account.

51. Defendant Joshua Rust knew that the Silver Pool was a fraudulent scheme. Defendant Joshua Rust knew that defendants Rust and RRC did not use money contributed by investors to the Silver Pool to purchase and trade silver. Defendant Joshua Rust knew that defendants Rust and RRC did not hold silver at Brink's or elsewhere anywhere near the amount defendants Rust and RRC claimed to hold on behalf of investors in the Silver Pool. Defendant Joshua Rust further knew that defendants Rust and RRC did not fund investor withdrawal requests by selling silver, but simply used new money contributed by other investors to fund these withdrawal requests. Defendant Joshua Rust knew and understood that defendant Rust was misappropriating money contributed by Silver Pool investors and using this money to support the operations of Rust's other businesses, including R. Legacy Entertainment, R. Legacy Racing, and R. Legacy Investments. Furthermore, defendant Joshua Rust knew, from discussions with defendant Rust, that Relief Defendants R. Legacy Entertainment, R. Legacy Racing, and R. Legacy Investments were dependent on money contributed by Silver Pool investors to fund their business operations

52. In addition, defendant Joshua Rust knew that money defendants Rust and RRC received from investors was commingled with the money RRC generated through its coin shop business. Defendant Joshua Rust further knew that defendant Rust was using RRC's name, logo, and letterhead to solicit investors and prospective investors for the Silver Pool.

53. Defendant Joshua Rust assisted defendants Rust and RRC in carrying out their fraudulent scheme by signing and issuing checks to Silver Pool investors that represented Ponzi payments. When defendant Joshua Rust prepared and signed these checks, he knew that the money for these payments was coming from the contributions of other investors in the Silver Pool, not from the sale of silver. In preparing and signing these checks, defendant Joshua Rust intended to assist defendants Rust and RRC make Ponzi payments to Silver Pool investors.

54. Defendant Joshua Rust also assisted defendants Rust and RRC in carrying out their fraudulent scheme by funding Ponzi payments to Silver Pool investors through transfers from the bank accounts RRC used in connection with its coin shop business. Defendant Joshua Rust used these bank accounts to receive sales revenue and pay expenses in connection with RRC's coin shop business. At various times during the Relevant Period, defendant Joshua Rust transferred money from these RRC bank accounts to the bank accounts defendants Rust and RRC used for the Silver Pool, including the 7496 Account, in order to fund Ponzi payments to Silver Pool investors. Defendant Joshua Rust made these transfers at the request of defendant Rust. At the time defendant Joshua Rust made these transfers, Joshua Rust knew that the money would be used by defendants Rust and RRC to make payments to Silver Pool investors that Silver Pool investors thought would be funded by the sale of silver. In making these transfers, defendant Joshua Rust intended to assist defendants Rust and RRC make Ponzi payments to Silver Pool investors in furtherance of defendants Rust and RRC's fraudulent scheme.

55. On a couple of occasions during the Relevant Period, defendant Joshua Rust requested and received transfers of money from the accounts defendants Rust and RRC used for the Silver Pool into the bank accounts defendant Joshua Rust used in connection with RRC's coin shop business. Defendant Joshua Rust requested and received these transfers to pay various expenses of RRC's coin shop business. In requesting and receiving these transfers, defendant Joshua Rust knew and understood that the money he was receiving consisted of money contributed by Silver Pool investors that those investors believed were used to purchase Silver.

5. Defendants Rust and RRC Provided Investors with False Account Statements that Depicted Fictitious Trading Activity and Misstated the Amount of Silver Defendants Rust and RRC Held in the Silver Pool

56. Defendants Rust and RRC provided Silver Pool investors with account statements that purported to show each trade involving silver defendants Rust and RRC executed on behalf of the Silver Pool. Specifically, these statements purported to show the number of ounces of silver involved in each sale, the price at which defendants Rust and RRC sold silver, the price at which defendants Rust and RRC repurchased the silver, and the number of ounces by which the Silver Pool's holdings of silver increased as a result of the trade.

57. According to these account statements, defendants Rust and RRC successfully sold silver at a higher price than they subsequently repurchased it on every single trade they executed on behalf of the Silver Pool. According to these account statements, defendants Rust and RRC increased the number of ounces held in the Silver Pool on every trade they executed.

58. These Silver Pool account statements were false. Defendants Rust and RRC never executed the sales and repurchases of silver listed in each account statement. In addition, defendants Rust and RRC occasionally provided investors with account statements that listed inconsistent trade details (such as price and quantity) for the same trade dates, despite defendants' Rust and RRC representation that they traded a single account on behalf of the entire Silver Pool.

59. These false account statements misrepresented the number of ounces of silver allocated to individual investors in the Silver Pool. As a result of these false account statements, Silver Pool investors believed they owned a share in the Silver Pool equal to the value of the number of ounces of silver indicated on the account statements and that defendants Rust and RRC were storing silver on their behalf at Brink's storage facilities in Salt Lake City and/or Los Angeles. In fact, defendants Rust and RRC did not hold or possess, either on behalf of Silver Pool investors or in their own names, the number of ounces of silver indicated on the account statements.

60. Defendants Rust and RRC prepared and disseminated to Silver Pool investors false account statements that contained the false and misleading information described above throughout the Relevant Period. In fact, the account statements defendants Rust and RRC prepared and disseminated to Silver Pool investors in 2008 closely resembled the form of the account statements they prepared and disseminated to Silver Pool investors in 2018 and contained similarly false information regarding trades defendants Rust and RRC claimed to have executed on behalf of the Silver Pool and the value of individual investors' shares in the Silver Pool.

61. Defendants Rust and RRC knew these account statements were false when they prepared and disseminated them to Silver Pool investors. Defendants Rust and RRC prepared and disseminated these false account statements in order to perpetrate and conceal their fraud from Silver Pool investors.

B. Specific Examples of Defendants' Fraud

62. Defendants Rust and RRC's fraudulent scheme, and the specific misrepresentations and misleading omissions they made to investors and prospective investors to solicit contributions to the Silver Pool, are illustrated by the following examples.

1. Defendants Rust and RRC Made Fraudulent Misrepresentations and Omissions to Silver Pool Investor D.C.

63. Silver Pool investor D.C. is a Utah resident. In or around August 2017, D.C.'s friend and business associate, L.F., told him about Rust's Silver Pool. L.F. told D.C. that L.F. had been investing with Rust in the Silver Pool for approximately two years and had obtained good results.

64. On August 9, 2017, D.C. invested $150,000 in defendants Rust and RRC's Silver Pool via two separate checks both payable to RRC. On January 22, 2018, D.C. invested an additional $400,000 in defendants Rust and RRC's Silver Pool, via check payable to RRC.

65. In May 2018, D.C. met in person with Rust at RRC's retail store in Salt Lake City, Utah to learn more about the Silver Pool.

66. During this May 2018 meeting, defendants Rust and RRC made the following misrepresentations to D.C. about the Silver Pool:

- a. Defendants Rust and RRC use funds contributed to the Silver Pool to purchase physical silver. Defendants Rust and RRC store the silver they purchase for the pool with a local company.
- b. Defendant Rust uses an independent auditor to verify that the amount of silver shipped to the storage facility matches what defendants Rust and RRC purchased with investor funds.
- c. Defendants Rust and RRC trade the silver held in the Silver Pool to generate investment returns for investors.
- d. Defendants Rust and RRC's trading strategy is to sell the silver held in the Silver Pool when prices in the silver market go up. After prices in the silver market have come back down, defendants Rust and RRC buy silver back at a lower price with the proceeds of the sale, thus increasing the amount of silver held in the Silver Pool.
- e. Using this trading strategy, defendants Rust and RRC have generated returns averaging between fifteen percent and twenty-five percent per year.
- f. Defendants Rust and RRC typically generate a profit from each sale and repurchase of silver they make. Only on a few rare occasions have defendants Rust and RRC made trades that did not generate a profit.

67. After the May 2018 meeting with defendant Rust, D.C. made four more contributions to the Silver Pool. On May 9, 2018, D.C. contributed $500,000 to the Silver Pool via check payable to RRC, which defendants Rust and RRC deposited in the 7496 Account. On May 16, 2018, D.C. contributed $1,000,000 to the Silver Pool via internal bank transfer to the 7496 Account. On May 23, 2018, D.C. contributed $500,000 to the Silver Pool via wire transfer to the 7496 Account. And on June 1, 2018, D.C. contributed $500,000 to the Silver Pool via check payable to RRC, which defendants Rust and RRC deposited in the 7496 Account.

68. As of June 1, 2018, D.C. had contributed a total of $3,050,000 to the Silver Pool.

69. D.C. did not receive an offering circular or prospectus prior to (or after) contributing money to the Silver Pool.

70. D.C. had no involvement in the Silver Pool investment opportunity other than providing investment funds.

71. D.C. received monthly account statements from defendants Rust and RRC for the months of July 2018 and August 2018. These statements purported to show the quantity of silver allocated to D.C.'s share in the Silver Pool, including the quantity of silver added to his investment as a result of defendants Rust and RRC's trading activity. According to these statements, defendants Rust and RRC executed one trade in June 2018, nine trades in July 2018, and six trades in August 2018. These statements indicate the date of each sale and corresponding repurchase of silver executed by defendants Rust and RRC during the relevant month, the quantity sold and repurchased, the price per ounce paid by defendants Rust and RRC in each sale and repurchase, the total value of the amount of silver sold and purchased, and the increase in the number of ounces of silver allotted to D.C.'s share in the Silver Pool. According to these statements, defendants Rust and RRC increased the number of ounces allotted to D.C. in every sale and repurchase of silver they executed on behalf of the Silver Pool.

72. The July and August 2018 statements defendants Rust and RRC provided to D.C. were false. Defendants Rust and RRC did not engage in the trades depicted on the statements. Defendants Rust and RRC did not increase the amount of silver D.C. owned through his investment in the Silver Pool as reflected in these statements.

73. On or about August 31, 2018, D.C. asked Rust to return $1.5 million of D.C.'s share in the Silver Pool. At this time, according to the statements provided by defendants Rust and RRC, D.C.'s share in the Silver Pool totaled $3,189,433.80. D.C. told Rust he needed the funds by September 12, 2018.

74. Even though the Silver Pool account statements provided by Rust to D.C. indicated that defendants Rust and RRC sold at least $1.5 million worth of silver on six dates in August 2018, and had funds available to repurchase silver within at most four days of the sale, Rust told D.C. that it would be difficult to liquidate $1.5 million of D.C.'s share of the Silver Pool by September 12, 2018.

75. In three separate wire transfers in September and October 2018, defendants Rust and RRC paid to D.C. an amount equal to the total amount of D.C.'s original contributions to the Silver Pool plus an additional amount intended to represent interest on the amount of those original contributions.

2. Defendants Rust and RRC Made Fraudulent Misrepresentations and Omissions to Silver Pool Investor H.H.

76. Investor H.H. is a Utah resident. H.H. was employed by RRC as an Information Technology Specialist from July 2017 to July 2018. H.H. provided IT services to both RRC and R Legacy Entertainment, as well as other entities owned and controlled by Rust.

77. As part of H.H.'s compensation package, defendants gave H.H. a $35,000 share in the Silver Pool. Defendants Rust and RRC explained to H.H. that they receive funds from investors to purchase physical silver and trade that silver to generate profits for investors.

78. Shortly after H.H. began working for RRC, H.H. explored making an additional investment in the Silver Pool with his own funds. In early July 2017, H.H. met with Rust at RRC's retail store in Salt Lake City to discuss this additional investment. During this meeting, defendants Rust and RRC made the following misrepresentations to H.H. about the Silver Pool:

- a. Defendants Rust and RRC collect money contributed by investors and pool that money to purchase physical silver on behalf of the Silver Pool;
- b. Defendants Rust and RRC actually possess the silver they purchase on behalf of the Silver Pool and use Brink's to transport, secure, and store the silver;
- c. Defendants Rust and RRC generate trading profits for the Silver Pool by selling silver and then repurchasing it at a lower price in order to increase the number of ounces of silver held in the Silver Pool;
- d. Specifically, defendants Rust and RRC receive information from a large global bank regarding when market participants intend to sell large quantities of silver and drive down the market price of silver. After receiving this information, defendants Rust and RRC sell approximately half of the silver held in the Silver Pool. After the market price of silver falls, defendants Rust and RRC use the proceeds from the sale of the silver to repurchase silver at the lower price;
- e. Defendants Rust and RRC trade silver on behalf of the Silver Pool through HSBC Bank;
- f. Defendants Rust and RRC measure the trading profits they generate through silver trading as the increase in the number of ounces generated by their sale and repurchase of silver. Defendants have never generated annual returns less than twenty percent and have generated annual returns as high as seventy percent; and
- g. Over the three years prior to the meeting with H.H., defendants Rust and RRC generated annual trading profits between twenty-two and twenty-six percent each year.

79. Following this meeting with Rust, H.H. decided to invest an additional $96,000 in the defendants Rust and RRC's Silver Pool. On or about July 6, 2017, H.H. hand-delivered a cashier's check to Rust in the amount of $96,000 made payable to RRC, which defendants Rust and RRC deposited in the 7496 Account.

80. By July 7, 2017, defendants Rust and RRC disbursed all the money in the 7496 Account, including the money contributed by H.H. Between July 5th and July 7th, 2017, defendants Rust and RRC used the money in the 7496 Account to make payments to other investors; to fund transfers to Rust's other businesses, including Relief Defendants R. Legacy Entertainment and R. Legacy Racing; and to fund transfers to other accounts in the name of RRC, including the 3564 Account. Although defendants Rust and RRC later sent some money from the 3564 Account to Jack Hunt Coin Broker, Inc. ("Jack Hunt"), a wholesale precious metals dealer, the amount they sent to Jack Hunt was far less than the $96,000 contributed by H.H.

81. H.H. did not receive an offering circular or prospectus prior to (or after) investing in the defendants Rust and RRC's Silver Pool. H.H. did not receive a written agreement outlining the terms of his Silver Pool investment.

82. Prior to accepting funds, Rust did not ask H.H. about the source of his funds, his risk tolerance, or his net worth.

83. H.H. had no involvement in the Silver Pool other than providing investment funds.

84. Defendants Rust and RRC provided H.H. with a total of eight account statements that purportedly depicted defendants Rust and RRC's trading activity on behalf of the Silver Pool and the value of H.H.'s investment. H.H. received account monthly statements for July through October 2017, and January through April 2018.

85. In each of these ten months, H.H.'s account statements show an increase every month in the number of ounces of silver purportedly owned by H.H. through his investment in the Silver Pool. According to these statements, H.H. began with 8,074 ounces of silver in July 2017 and owned 10,209 ounces by April 2018. The value of H.H.'s share in the Silver Pool, according to these statements, increased from $131,000 to $176,077.72, a gain of approximately thirty-four percent. The Silver Pool account statements provided by defendants Rust and RRC to H.H. were false, and the investment returns reflected in them were fictitious. At no time between July 2017 and April 2018 did defendants Rust and RRC trade physical silver as shown in H.H.'s Silver Pool account statements.

86. In July 2018, RRC terminated H.H.'s employment for reasons unrelated to H.H.'s involvement in the Silver Pool. On August 6, 2018, H.H. went to RRC's retail store in Salt Lake City to discuss with Rust his participation in the Silver Pool in light of his termination.

87. During this August 6, 2018, meeting, defendants Rust and RRC made further misrepresentations to H.H about the Silver Pool, including:

- a. that over the past thirty years, defendants Rust and RRC have consistently generated annual returns of twenty to twenty-five percent from trading physical silver in the manner they previously described to H.H. Defendants Rust and RRC further told H.H. that in his worst year they generated an annual return of twelve percent. Defendants Rust and RRC told H.H. that over the last five years, the lowest annual return they generated was forty percent;
- b. that defendants Rust and RRC hold the physical silver owned on behalf of the Silver Pool at Brink's facilities in Salt Lake City, Utah and Los Angeles, California;
- c. that defendants Rust and RRC trade the silver they own on behalf of the Silver Pool through a single account with HSBC Bank; and
- d. that defendants Rust and RRC receive information from a commodity analyst at a large global bank regarding anticipated movements in the price of silver and use this information to sell silver and repurchase it at a lower price.

88. At the August 6, 2018, meeting, defendants Rust and RRC told H.H. that to liquidate his share in the Silver Pool, he could either (1) take possession of the physical silver purchased with H.H.'s investment funds, (2) take possession of gold and silver eagles (coins) in an equivalent value, or (3) cash out the investment.

89. On or about August 14, 2018, H.H. made a request to defendants Rust and RRC via telephone to liquidate his share in the Silver Pool in the form of cash. Approximately three weeks later, H.H. received a wire transfer from RRC in the amount of $171,793.02, which purportedly included the $35,000 defendants Rust and RRC told H.H. they contributed to the Silver Pool as part of H.H.'s compensation, the $96,000 H.H. contributed himself, and investment gains purportedly resulting from defendants Rust and RRC trading and reflected in the account statements defendants Rust and RRC provided to H.H. Defendants Rust and RRC did not sell silver to fund this wire transfer to H.H.; instead, defendants Rust and RRC used money recently contributed by two other investors.

C. Defendants Rust and RRC Continued To Solicit New Investors for Their Fraudulent Scheme At Least Through November 15, 2018

90. Defendants Rust and RRC continued to solicit new investors for the Silver Pool at least through November 15, 2018 by making the same misrepresentations and omitting the same material facts as described above. In addition, defendants Rust and RRC continued, at least through November 15, 2018, to make these misrepresentations and misleading omissions to current Silver Pool investors, misappropriate Silver Pool investor funds, and provide existing Silver Pool investors with false account statements that misrepresent the value of their interest in the Silver Pool.

91. For example, on September 6, 2018, defendants Rust and RRC solicited an FBI Special Agent posing as a prospective investor in the same manner as they solicited investors and prospective investors throughout the Relevant Period. At a meeting at RRC's retail store in Salt Lake City, Utah, defendants Rust and RRC falsely stated to this FBI Special Agent:

- a. that all trades defendants Rust and RRC executed on behalf of the Silver Pool involved actual physical silver defendants Rust and RRC possessed and stored in Brink's storage facilities in Salt Lake City, Utah and Los Angeles, California, and that defendants Rust and RRC were in possession of, as of September 6, 2018, approximately $77 million in silver held in these storage facilities, when in fact defendants Rust and RRC had no silver stored with Brink's;
- b. that defendants Rust and RRC would use money contributed to the Silver Pool by new investors to purchase additional silver for the Silver Pool, when in fact defendants Rust and RRC used new contributions to make payments to existing investors and fund transfers to defendant Rust's other businesses, only occasionally sending money to precious metals dealers;
- c. that defendants Rust and RRC had an account with HSBC Bank through which Rust traded silver on behalf of the Silver Pool, when in fact, neither Rust nor RRC had a trading account with HSBC;
- d. that Rust had a "very good personal relationship" with a commodity analyst at a global bank, who provided Rust with information regarding the price levels at which market participants purportedly would sell silver into the market and drive down the market price, allowing defendant Rust to sell silver held in the Silver Pool and repurchase it at lower price;
- e. that investors in the Silver Pool could expect returns of approximately twenty to twenty-five percent from defendants Rust and RRC's trading, and defendants Rust and RRC had generated returns as high as 112 percent within the five years prior to September 6, 2018, when in fact, defendants Rust and RRC did not sell and then repurchase silver as described and never generated such investment returns; and
- f. any request by an investor to liquidate his or her share in the Silver Pool would be funded by selling silver defendants Rust and RRC held in the Silver Pool, when in fact defendants Rust and RRC funded such requests using new contributions from new and existing Silver Pool investors.

D. Defendant Rust Acted as a Controlling Person for defendant RRC

92. At all times during the Relevant Period, defendant Rust was RRC's owner, sole director, president, and registered agent.

93. During the Relevant Period, defendant Rust made all financial and strategic business decisions for defendant RRC.

94. During the Relevant Period, defendant Rust directed, among other things, the opening of bank accounts and signing of documents on behalf of defendant RRC. In addition, defendant Rust was a signatory on each of defendant RRC's bank accounts.

95. Defendant Rust knowingly induced defendant RRC's fraudulent acts by virtue of directing those fraudulent acts.

E. Defendant Rust Acted as an Agent for defendant RRC

96. Defendant Rust acted as an agent for defendant RRC. He solicited investors on behalf of RRC, generated Silver Pool account statements on behalf of RRC, and handled all Silver Pool investor funds received by RRC. As the owner, sole director, president, and registered agent of RRC, Rust acted on behalf of RRC.

VI. VIOLATIONS OF THE UTAH UNIFORM SECURITIES ACT

COUNT III – AGAINST DEFENDANTS RUST AND RRC

MISREPRESENTATIONS AND OMISSIONS MADE IN CONNECTION WITH THE OFFER AND SALE OF SECURITIES

Violations of Section 61-1-1(2) of the UUSA

111. As described herein, defendants Rust and RRC have violated and continue to violate Section 61-1-1(2) of the UUSA by, among other things, (i) telling investors that their funds would be used to purchase physical silver which would secure the investment and be stored at Brinks, when in fact, the majority of investor funds were used to pay Rust's personal and business expenses, and to pay prior investors, and Brinks was not storing silver in that quantity for the defendants Rust and RRC, and had no contract with defendants Rust and RRC to do so; (ii) telling investors that half of the physical silver purchased with their investment funds would be traded by Rust through a commodity account with HSBC bank, when in fact, the defendants Rust and RRC had no account with HSBC; (iii) failing to tell investors that the defendants Rust and RRC were not licensed in the securities industry; (iv) failing to provide investors with any disclosure documents such as a prospectus or offering circular.

112. Each untrue statement of a material fact or omission of a material fact, including but not limited to those specifically alleged herein, is alleged as a separate violation of Section 61-1-1(2) of the UUSA.

COUNT IV – AGAINST ALL DEFENDANTS

ACT, PRACTICE, OR COURSE OF BUSINESS WHICH OPERATED AS A FRAUD OR DECEIT

Violations of Section 61-1-1(3) of the UUSA
(Brought by Plaintiff State of Utah)

113. The allegations in paragraphs 1-96 are re-alleged and incorporated herein by reference.
